PUBLIC AUCTION.

To be sold, at public auction, at Northumberland court house, in the county of Northumberland, and state of Virginia, on TUESDAY, the fifth day of September next, at eleven o'clock, in the forenoon,
Five contiguous Plantations,
Amounting together to about 2700 Acres,
SITUATE on the river Potomac, and within about three miles of the court-house. These estates formerly belonged to Presley Thornton, Esq. and are the same on which he lived. They have never been seen by either of the subscribers; but it is understood, that about 1700 acres of them are as valuable low grounds as any on the river, and a considerable part thereof heavily timbered. The uplands consist of about 1000 acres, and the whole is well calculated for the production of corn, wheat, tobacco, timothy, and small grain of all kinds, in great abundance. The waters are said to abound with excellent fish, oysters, and wild fowl The water carriage is easy and convenient to Norfolk, Baltimore, Alexandria, and the city of Washington; and as these estates possess several good mill seats, with an abundance of water, and a plentiful supply of timber, they must be very valuable.

The premises will be shewn to persons inclining to purchase, by Col. James Moore, who lives on them, or by Samuel Blackwell, Esq. who lives near to them; and the terms of payment may be known a sufficient time before the sale, by applying to either of them, or to the subscriber in the city of Philadelphia.

Of a report of the Commissary of the French frigate Juno, to the Minister of Marine, dated

St. Bartholemews, Feb. 29, 1809.

SIR,

We set sail from the Saintes the 7th of Feb. 1809, at 8 in the evening, going through the South passage. Whilst in the Channel off the Saintes and on the north passage, we discovered the Latona frigate, which about three o'clock, P. M. of that day, had sent a flag to the Saintes to enquire the fate of some men, who had been killed or taken on the evening of the 6th, near where they had landed from the pinnace, undoubtedly for the purpose of buying provisions, which they had been accustomed to do. Col. Madier, the commander of the Saintes, to whom capt. Rosseau had imparted his intentions to sail the evening of that day, under some pretext, detained the English flag.

Towards six in the evening, the English frigate Latona, discovering that her cutter was not likely to return, fired several guns for its recall, until at length the night becoming very dark, a light was hoisted at her fore top mast to serve as a guide in case it should attempt to return in the night. This light constantly made us acquainted with the position of the Latona, and an hour after our going through the channel, we still discovered by the frigate's light that she made no movement whatever. We, then, continued our course in beating through the Sombrera passage, under the direction of the channel pilot whom we had taken on board at Basse Terre.

The next day, the eighth, about noon, off Montserat, we fell in with two brigs of war, on the same tack off our board, throwing out signals to us, and which we discovered to be English. After they had passed us, they put about and followed us; the breeze being weak, and their sailing superior to ours, they kept us in sight the whole night, during which they fired several guns, and discharged several rockets undoubtedly with the view of collecting their forces.—With the breeze all the time in their favor. The next day, the ninth, about noon, one of them came up within cannon shot; the captain gave orders to luff, and fire a broad-side which was instantly executed; after which they immediately put about ship and both brigs stood off, and before night we lost sight of them. We kept our course, and the next day, the tenth, having got about 9 miles through the channel, we discovered a sail off our larboard quarter, about six miles distant, and another off our beam about eighteen miles distant, both under our lee and pursuing us. The first was the brig SERPENT, one of the vessels which had been watching us, and which had met in the night the LATONA frigate which had been pursuing us since the morning of the eighth and to which the SERPENT had related the affair of the 8th with us. At ten o'clock, we descried two other sails, in different positions, under our lee. These were the brig Superior, the other of those which were watching us, and the sloop of war Driver; we shortly after discovered a fifth sail to the windward and bearing down upon us, which we quickly discovered to be the frigate Horatio. Captain Rousseau, judging that to avoid an engagement was impossible, gave orders to prepare for action. About a quarter past noon the frigate Horatio commenced the engagement at about pistol-shot distance. Captain Rousseau was mortally wounded at the third broad-side, and Emerie, lieutenant de vaisseau, took the command. A very brisk fire was kept up for about two hours, when the Horatio became crippled in all her masts, whilst we, sir, had only lost our main top-gallant mast; we had then about ninety men disabled, among whom Mr. Hanier, officer of artillery; Faucor, a midshipman of the first class; Recor, midshipman belonging to the Topaze, the master-gunner and boatswain, were very dangerously wounded: Mr. Doulet, lieutenant de vaisseau, less dangerously, and a great number killed, among whom were the principal helms man, and two coasting pilots. In this situation, sir, we were obliged to abandon the Horatio in order to escape the Latona, which was visibly gaining upon us. Mr. Emerie ordered the rigging to be repaired as soon as possible in the interval between this engagement and that we were compelled to endure with the Latona; the brig Superior every now and then, tacked a cross our stern, and fired a broad-side on us; two stern-chasers were brought to bear to keep her off. Nothing discouraged the brave crew of the Juno; neither the injuries she had already sustained, nor the superior force which was brought against her; and the engagement with the Latona commenced in about half an hour after the other had terminated with the Horatio. The same zeal and ardor as in the first was displayed in the last engagement which lasted about three quarters of an hour when our three masts fell together; we had lost then, sir, about thirty men more: five pieces were dismounted in our batteries; 15 or 16 balls between wind and water, and a great number between decks, and on fire under the bowsprit. This was our situation when we struck our colors. The nature of my duty on board does not permit to say more: but I cannot recollect, without the most lively emotions, the courage of this brave crew so bravely commanded, who unceasingly cried out that the flag should not be struck, but that it should still fly, and unceasingly testified the most lively attachment to his majesty by the reiterated cries of "Long live the Emperor."

DECLARATION OF WAR

By Francis I. Emperor of Austria.

AND ADDRESS TO THE ARCHDUKE.

VIENNA, April 12.

Before his Imperial majesty left this capital, he was pleased to issue the following

PROCLAMATION.

Francis I. by the grace of God, Emperor of Austria, &c.

PEOPLE OF AUSTRIA!

I leave my capital to join the brave defenders of the country, assembled on the frontiers for the protection of the state.

For these three years past I have made the utmost exertions to procure you, my beloved subjects, the blessings of a permanent peace. No sacrifice, any ways consistent with your welfare and with the independence of the state, however painful, have I spared to secure your tranquility and welfare by a friendly understanding with the emperor of the French.

But all my endeavors proved fruitless. The Austrian monarchy was also to submit to the boundless ambition of the emperor Napoleon; and in the same manner he strives to subdue Spain, insults the sacred head of the church, appropriates to himself the provinces of Italy, and parcels out the German dominions. Austria was to do homage to the great empire, the formation of which he has loudly announced.

I have adopted all necessary measures to assert the independence of the state. Not only have ye answered my call, but your love for your your native country has prompted you to anticipate it. Accept my cordial thanks; they will be repeated by my posterity and yours. Self defence, not invasion, was our aim. But the conqueror will not allow the sovereign of his people, strong in their mutual confidence, to possess sufficient means to oppose his ambitious views. He declared himself hostile to Austria, unless she should relinguish her measures of defence, and prostrate herself disarmed at his feet. The disgraceful proposal was rejected, and now his hosts are advancing against us, arrayed for battle.

I confide in God—in the valor of my armies, in the heroic conduct of my brother, who leads them on to glory, in you my beloved people: our exertions for this war are great; but such they must be in order to attain more securely the important end of self-preservation.

What you have hitherto done is the most unquestionable pledge of the powerful assistance which I am to receive from you. They who bear no arms will also share in the protection of the country. Unanimity, order, obedience, activity, and confidence constitute the real strength of a nation. You have evinced them, and to this alone it is owing, that we start with a fairer prospect of success than we ever did. Fortunate events will not unnerve your energy, nor disastrous occurrences, should any happen, shake your firm resolve. Perseverant valor overcomes all dangers, enhances every advantage, and supplies all losses. Our cause is just; Providence does not forsake those who do not forsake themselves.

I depend on your love, your tried fidelity to your prince and country. Depend on the paternal solicitude of your monarch, who finds all his happiness in you.

FRANCIS.

Vienna, April 9, 1809.

The Archduke Charles has issued the following

ADDRESS TO THE GERMAN NATION.

His majesty the emperor of Austria is forced to take up arms, because the French emperor will not tolerate the existence of a state which does not acknowledge his supremacy of power, nor stoop to become subservient to his views of conquest; because he requires that Austria shall renounce her independence, unbend her energies, and surrender at the conqueror's discretion; because the armies of the emperor of France, and of his dependent allies, advance against Austria with hostile views.

The forces of Austria have risen for self defence and self-preservation at the nod of their monarch; I am leading them on against the enemy, to prevent the certain attack he prepared against us.

We pass the frontiers not as conquerors: not as enemies of Germany: not to destroy German institutions, customs and manners, and impose foreign ones; not to appropiate to ourselves the property of Germany, or to sacrifice her children in distant wars, carried on to subjugate foreign nations. No; we fight to assert the independence of the Austrian monarchy, and to restore, to Germany the independence and national honors which are due to her.

The same pretensions which now threaten us have already proved fatal to Germany. Our assistance is her last effort to be saved. Our cause is that of Germany. United with Austria, Germany was independent and happy: it is only through the assistance of Austria that Germany can receive happiness and independence.

Germans! Consider your destruction.—Accept the aid we offer, and co-operate with us for your salvation. We demand from you no exertions, but such as the war for our common cause requires. Your property and your domestic peace are secured by the discipline of our troops. The Austrian armies will not oppress nor rob you; they respect you as brethren, chosen to fight jointly with us, for your cause and ours.—Be worthy of our respect; such Germans only as forget themseves are our enemies.

Depend on my word, which I have more than once pledged, and redeemed to save you! Depend on the word of my emperor and brother, which has never been violated.

CHARLES, Generalissimo.

STATE OF THE FRENCH FLEET.

By an officer who left Rochefort on the 24th ultimo.

L'Ocean, of 120 guns, vice admiral Alemand, Captain Rowland—on shore as late as the 24th of April, unrigged, lightened and shored up by lower yards, and no probable chance of getting off, having laid there two spring tides.

Foudroyant, of 84 guns, rear ad. Yourden, Captain Henri—in the same state on the 24th.

Cæsar, of 84 guns, Commodore Faure—gone up the river towards Rochefort, much damaged by grounding.

Tourville, of 74 guns, Captain Le Gaillie—gone up the river, and damaged.

Aquilon, of 74 guns, Capt. Manyon, (died of his wounds) struck to the Revenge and frigates on the 12th of April, and burnt by the English.

Tonnerre, of 84 guns, Captain Clement de la Rousiere—burnt by the enemy with the French colors flying.

Ville de Varsovie, of 84 guns, Capt. Crevillier—struck to the Revenge and frigates, and burnt by them.

Jemappe, 74 guns, Captain Favaur—gone up the river much damaged, having been on shore.

Jean Bart, 80 guns, Captain Bosee, [ordered by Bonaparte to be shot] wrecked on the 26th of Feb. on Lespalles shoal, while reconnoitring the English fleet.

Calcutta, formerly English, of 50 guns, Captain Lesense—struck to the Imperieuse and burnt by her.

Regulus, of 84 guns, Captain Lucas, and Patriot, of 74 guns, Capt. Mane—were both on shore; one as late as the 24th, having been there two spring tides—the other supposed to have gone to pieces in a westerly gale, or got off and went up the river in the night.

Indienne frigate, Captain Protoare—burnt by the enemy the 16th of April.

Elbe, do. Captain Beranger; Pallas, ditto, Captain Le Bigot; and Hortense, do. Capt. Allgand; escaped up the river on the night our fire ships bore down upon the enemy.

PROCLAMATION, BY DAVOUST,

To the Army of the Rhine.

HELLAU, May 12.

"SOLDIERS,

HIS majesty the emperor of Austria commenced hostilities on the 8th instant.—This was announced by his general in chief on the 9th. They have taken up arms.——The orders of the day delivered to the Austrian armies are merely the effusions of scurrility. This is not the way to attack the soldiers of the emperor Napoleon. They theaten loudly to overwhelm us with d feat and disgrace upon the plains of Ul and Marengo. Your conduct will she what right they have to make use of the threats. Soldiers, our beloved sovereig when he was first consul, offered peace, emperor of Austria refused it—Maren compelled him to accept of terms. English broke the treaty of Amiens. sovereign had collected his armies on French coast, and the emperor of Aust availed himself of that juncture, and with any previous declaration of war, violat the territory of our allies, and threated ou Ulm compelled the enemy of our sovere again to make peace. In the present stance the emperor of Austria has threate ed the territory of our our allies, with the least appearance of any difference tween the two powers, and conceiving hi sell in a situation to undertake hostiliti has actually commenced war. The direc ors of the Austrian cabinet has a very gre interest in the result of their libellous scu rilities. Woe be those who may dare disseminate them, and by these means ex cite disturbance; the prompt execution military law will be the inevitable conse quence.

Soldiers—In spite of those libellous re proaches, Germany has done honor to you discipline and good conduct. You do n make war against the inhabitants; thos unfortunate sacrifices to the views of th house of Austria, whose ambition has stain ed so many pages of history with blood and whose arrogance has again excited suc agitations among the nations.

A soldier of Napoleon must not only b free from censure, but without fear. there are any of a contrary character in ou ranks, and who shall so far transgress a gainst the fundamentals of all discipline a to dishonor his cloth by plunder or disobe dience, punishment shall speedily follow.

The results of this war are certain. W shall be supported by the emperor Alexa der, who is faithful to his engagements peace or war. With his armies, who you highly respect; with the confedera sovereigns whose wish is that we should venge their cause, and secure them in f ture against the ambition of our eternal nemy; and lastly, through the justice our cause, victory must be ours. You courage, and the genius of your sovereig when you see him in the midst of you, wi be the most infallible assusance of your tr umph.

The Marshal Duke of AUERSTADT.

LERIDA, March 20.

The enemy who are on our frontier o the side of Arragon to the number of 400 men and have their head-quarters at Frag which is distant 7 leagues from this plac and their advanced posts distance 1 leagu have summoned it to surrender by the fo lowing letter from the French general to ou governor.

FRAGA, March 16, 1809.

GOVERNOR,

His excellency the marshal duke Montebello, wishing to avoid an useless e fusion of blood and to avert from the ci of Lerida a lot similar to that experience by the inhabitants of Saragossa, directs m to write to invite you to deliver to th French troops the town and forts of Lerid offering as well to yourself as to your troo the most honorable capitulation. The ca ture of Saragossa has placed at the dispo of his excellency such resources, both troops and artillery, that it is impossible you to make an effectual resistance: not accept the proposals which I have the h nor to make to you, would be to cause destruction of Lerida and the misery o inhabitants. I therefore invite you, sir, riously to reflect upon the consequences a resistance, and to let me know your termination that I may regulate my condu Accept, sir, the assurance of my conside tion with which I have the honor to sal you. Alexandria Daily Gazette.

TUESDAY, JUNE 13.

Extract of a letter from a mercantile house in London, to a merchant in this town, received by the Pacific.

The orders in council of the 26th April, 1809, after a recital of the order in council of the 11th November, 1807, and a referen…e made to the subsequent orders of the 25 h of November and 18th D…cember, 1807, and the 13th March 1808, revokes and an…nuls the said several orders, except as there…in after excepted. It then proceeds to or…der, that all the ports and places under the governments of Holland and France, toge…ther with the colonies, plantations and settle…ments in the possession of these govern…ments, & the ports of Italy, north of Orbitil…lo & Pesaro, shall continue and be subject to the same restrictions in point of trade & navi…gation, without any exception, as if the same were actually blockaded by his majesty's na…val forces in the most strict and rigorous manner, and that any vessel trading from and to the said countries or colonies, plan…tations or settlements, together with all goods and merchandize on board, shall be condemned as prize to the captors.

The boundary of Holland includes the river Ems.

It is further ordered, that if any vessel shall be captured after the day of the date of the order in a voyage prohibited by the for…mer orders, but which prohibition is by the present order revoked, such ship shall be released. And it is further ordered, that no vessel shall be liable to capture for being in a voyage not prohibited by the former orders, but which is not permitted by the provisions of this order, unless such vessel shall have received actual notice of the pre…sent order, or until after the same interval allowed for constructive notice, in the orders of the 25th of November, 1807, and 18th of May, 1808.

It is proposed under the new consolida…tion act, that all cotton wool, not being the growth or production of British colonies, shall be subject to a duty of £ 1 15*s*. 6*d*. per 100lbs. and 12*s*. 6*d*. temporary or war duty, if not imported in a British ship; but un…til the passing of this act, it is intended that cotton wool, being the growth or produce of the United States, shall, when imported in American ships, navigated according to law, be subject to the same duties, whether such importations shall be made directly or in…directly from the place of its growth.

N. B. Sea-letter ships are not entitled to this character by our revevenue laws, altho' admitted as legal in the courts of admiralty.

With respect to explanations entered into respecting the extent of protection, which …may be deemed expedient to afford at the …sent juncture, to the commercial inter…course with the United States, their lord…ships will be very ready to give any further …formation which any of the American …rchants may wish to obtain.

CONGRESS.

HOUSE OF REPRESENTATIVES.

Monday, June 12.

[Taken for the Alexandria Gazette.]

Mr. Nelson from the committee to whom it was referred, reported the bill from the Senate without amendment, to suspend the recruiting service. Referred to the committee of the whole house, to whom was referred the subject of the military establishment of the U. S.

Several petitions from manufacturers of salt in Massachusetts, were presented, praying the duties on salt to be revived. Referred to the committee of commerce and manufactures.

Mr. Gardenier got leave of absence for the remainder of the session.

Mr. J. Montgomery from the committee to whom was reported a resolution to enquire whether any, and what compensation ought to be made to major Pike, and his companions, reported a bill authorising land warrants to be issued for acres, in their favor, and to receive double pay for their services. Read once, and on motion that it be read a second time, it was lost,—ayes 42, nays 57.

A report was read from the attorney-general on the subject of the disputed Batteure—as the facts were not authenticated and the law in relation to it at variance he could not consistently give a positive opinion on its merits, and recommended the dispute to be adjusted by a board of commissioners, when all the evidence in point would be brought before them, or else authorising an appeal from the territorial court of Orleans to the supreme court of the United States. Referred to a select committee of 5, to report by bill or otherwise.

Mr. Newton, from the committee of commerce and manufactures reported a bill authorising the erection of two light houses on Plumb Island in Massachusetts. Referred to a committee of the whole house on Wednesday.

A message from the senate, notifying, that they had passed a bill for carrying into effect a treaty with certain Indians; also a resolution authorising the president of the senate and speaker of the house of representatives to adjourn both houses of Congress for the present session on the 20th instant.

A petition of the inhabitants of Washington county, Mississippi territory, was read, praying a division of that territory—laid on the table.

Mr. Dana presented the petition of Henry Mead, stating his knowledge of the art to refine camphor, and borax—referred to the committee of commerce and manufactures.

Mr. Bibb called up the resolution received from the senate for adjourning present session on the 20th instant.

Mr. J. G. Jackson moved that the consideration of the resolution be postponed till Thursday next. Carried.

[Likely that the subject of the late dispatches may transpire before a resolution of speedy adjournment.]

Mr. Cutts, from the commtitee on that part of the president's message as relates to the naval establishment, reported a bill, authorising the president, in case of a favorable result of our negociations, to lay up in ordinary such of the frigates as he may deem necessary; and repealing the clause of last session, stationing the frigates off the coast. Referred to a committee of the whole house to-morrow.

Mr. Cutts, from the same committee to whom was referred a resolution of the 6th inst. instructing them to enquire into the expediency of selling any part of the public armed vessels and gun boats, reported, that it is not expedient, at this time to dispose of them.

The house then went into a committee of the whole on report of the contested election of Wm. Baylies, Mr. Pitkin in the chair. [The report concluded recommending a postponement of the decision, and the question, was whether this report be accepted.]

From the New-York Gazette of June 9.

In the house of peers, on the 4th ultimo, Lord Selkirk rose pursuant to notice, and after some remarks, moved an humble address to his majesty, praying that he would be pleased to direct, that in the negociation now pending with America, the character of the affair between the frigates Leopard and Chesapeake in 1807, should be ascertained, the causes that led to it, and of the consequences with which it may be attended. It was objected to on the ground that it was improper to agitate this question at a time when negociations were going on.—After a short reply by the mover, the question was put and negatived without a division.

It appears by the modification of the orders in council, which are given in this day's Gazette, that the United States may trade without interruption from British cruizers, with all the ports of Russia, Norway, and Sweden, in the northern ocean; with the whole circuit of the Baltic sea; with the British isles; with Spain from the eastern extremity of Austurius to the southern bank of the Lobregat; Italian and French ports excepted, with every harbor of the Mediterranean, from the Straits of Gibraltar to the sea of Marmora.

A London paper [the Times] observes "the news orders of council are, it will be seen, precisely in effect such as we stated them to be in our paper of Saturday; and we see no reason to alter the observations which we therein made upon them. We rejoice greatly that the American merchants in this country are satisfied with their tenor, because, should the government of America still continue to express discontent with our concessions and persist in maintaining the non-intercourse bill, it must then, we conceive, expose itself to the disapprobation of its own friends. We are unwilling, however, to believe that this will be the case. In fact, the very last order of council can, on due consideration, only be regarded as a permanent measure upon this one supposition, that France does not chuse to forego her commercial edicts; and, even if so, what does it affect? Why, it certainly blockades the ports of Holland, to which the Americans would, if they could, gain entrance, by asserting the strange doctrine that Holland is an independent power; but as to the coast of France, it places no more obstructive barrier between it and America, than America does herself by her own non-intercourse bill.

"But we are more disposed to consider the measure as a temporary one, applicable to a transient, than productive of a final state of things. France, on the relaxation of our late orders, may, perhaps, be inclined to relinquish her decrees; and hereupon the non-intercourse bill ceasing in its operation upon France, the maintenance of so extensive a system of blockade as that promulgated by the existing order of council, may be deemed too great an assumption on the part of Britain; and would we should think, be modified, and confined to those ports only which we really were blockading; and thus the maratime view of Europe will revert to its old channel."

London, May 4.

The Pulteney Cutter, which arrived at Weymouth on Tuesday, from Guernsey, brought intelligence that the French were evacuating Spain. It is not improbable that the part of the French army now in Spain may be withdrawn; but the idea of the complete evacuation of the country is evidently absurd.

Lord William Bentick is appointed to go out with a special commission, to be with the archduke Charles at the Austrian armies.

May 5.

The last accounts from the river Plata were brought by the Windsor Packet, which left Rio Janeiro on the first of March. They confirm the intelligence which we gave a few days ago, respecting the disputes between Liniers and the Cabilda, and the villainous conduct of the former, in having entrapped and sent to sea, some of the members of that body. It appears that there are three parties at Buenos Ayres; one in the interest of Liniers, or, rather France; another devoted to Ferdinand VII. and a third attached to the Cabilda. Though the adherents of France are active and resolute, it was supposed that that they would be soon overthrown. The governor and people of Monte Viedo had opposed the pretensions of Liniers, and the latter was preparing for an attack upon that place. Liniers had prohibited the admission of British goods, and had seized two cargoes, on board two Portuguese vessels.

Doctor I. J. Comyn,

A professional DENTIST—of Baltimore,

RESPECTFULLY acquaints the LADIES and GENTLEMEN of Alexandria, that he intends to practice in this place for a few days, in all the various branches of his profession. No genteel person of either sex, can give or receive pleasure or comfort, by teeth coated with tart or decayed gums, or fœted breath, His methed of cleaning th teeth will be found both easy and efficacious, as hundreds can attest in Baltimore and elsewhere. Without giving pain, or hurting the enamel, he removes the tartar, &c. when the teeth will assume a beautiful appearance the gums adhering to the teeth; but if the state of the gums require it, doctor C. will give to the pa[illegible] an antiscorbutic lotion of chemical preparation, which gained the applause of hundreds both in Europe and America.—It is pleasant, innocent, and effectual, in smoothing and whitening the teeth and curing the gums, rendering them red and firm, preventing the decay of the teeth and sweetening the breath. Doct. C. fits artificial teeth from one to an entire set, with such nicety, to answer the useful purposes of nature, and of so natural an appearance that it is impossible to distinguish them from real ones. Dr. C. flatters himself from his being regularly bred to the practice of physick, as well as to the Dentist Business, and his long experience on the continent of Europe (France and Spain) to give to all those who favour him with their commands, every possible satisfaction.

USEFUL PROPERTIES OF YARWOOD'S Patent Washing Machine.

THIS highly useful Machine is found by experience to excel any hitherto in use. It will wash as many cloaths (by the assistance of one person) in an hour as can be washed in a whole day, without the possibility of injuring, fretting or tearing the most delicate article, and with less than half the quantity of soap. It occupies very little more space than the common wash-tub, and with the least care will not create any slop or wet—the construction is very simple and attended with little expence. A further description of its qualities is now deemed unnecessary, as it is presumed none will purchase without examining it.

HAMILTON'S ELIXIR, FOR COUGHS.

THE increasing reputation of Hamilton's Elixir (which during the last nine years has become celebrated throughout the U. States,) warrants the assertion that it is the best remedy now in use for colds, obstinate coughs, asthmas and approaching consumptions.—Experience has taught thousands, that the common opiates and balsamics, as they are called, finally aggravate every disorder of the breast and lungs, in the most distressing symptoms, that they load the stomach and impair the digestion, inflame the whole system increase the difficulty of breathing and excite fever. But the qualities of this valuable discovery are evinced by perfectly opposite effects.

A single trial will prove that it restores the determination of the fluids to the surface of the body, and brings on the common healthful perspiration; that it dislodges and evacuates the tough vicid phlegm or mucur, strengthens the weakened vessels of the lungs sheathes he acrimonious liquor which irritates theme and finally discharges it. Thus striking at the root of the disorder the symptoms are effecetually and permanently conquered, the revers, of common medicine which weakens the constitution and gives strength to the disorder, or the sake of moderating for the present some of its painful effects.

To parents who have children afflicted with the hooping cough, this discovery is of the first magnitude, as it affords immediate relief, checks the progress, and in a short time entirely removes the most cruel disorder to which children are liable. The Elixir is perfectly agreeable, and the dose so small, that no difficulty arises in taking it.

Select Recommendations.

Philadelphia, August 9, 1806.

Mrs, H. Lee, widow of Richard Lee, jr.

Being desirous to make public for the good of others the excellent quality of Hamilton's Elixir, prepared by the late Mr. Lee, I have sent you the following account of the benefit I have received from it; which I hope will induce others to give it a trial. In consequence of a bruise on the breast received from a fall, my health grew bad, my breathing became very difficult, and frequently I have had suddenly to rise up in my bed with all the horrors of immediate suffocation. Add to these, a constant pain in my breast, and a cough, a great loss of strength and flesh, and you may conceive that my symptons evidently indicated an approaching consumption.—The advice of a most eminent physician was resorted to, and afterwards a second was called in, but without giving me any relief. Another physician, who knew me and the circumstances of my case, advised me to give Hamilton's Elixir a trial, saying, he had used it in his practice, and always found it do much good. A bottle was procured from Mr. Birch's and I found relief before I had taken half of it. I continued to use it, and was soon strong enough to attend to business. On taking cold some of my former symptoms return, but are always removed by a dose or two of the Elixir,

GEO. BENNER, junior,
No. 11, Budd-street, Philadelphia.

Mr. Charles Myers, Hamstead-Hill, near Baltimore, had been a long time dangerously indisposed, and was reduced to the lowest state of weakness, insomuch that his recovery appeared extremely doubtful. His complaints which seemed to be affections of the breast and lungs, and general debility occasioned thereby, yielded little, but rather progressed under the treatment of several eminent physicians; when by the use of Hamilton's Elixir, his distressing cough was immediately alleviated, and every other symptom perfectly subdued. Four or five bottles entirely removed his complaints and restored him to an excellent state of health and strength, which he has for upwards of a ear past, enjoyed without interruption.

From Luther Martin, esq. late attorney general of Maryland.

I comply with your request in stating my opinion of Hamilton's Elixir. It has been used in my family for two or three years past, with uniform success, whenever coughs, colds, or similar complaints have rendered medicine necessary. I have myself found it an excellent and agreeable remedy for a very painful and troublesome affection of the breast, accompanied with soreness, and with obstructed and difficult breathing.

On these accounts I do not hesitate to recommend Hamilton's Elixir as a valuable medicine, and deserving public attention.
